Lakeland
COMMUNITY COLLEGE

A Message from the President

Lakeland Community College turned 50 on Sept. 25, 2017. That day marked the first day the college opened for classes in 1967. Technically, that makes the college a baby boomer. True to the spirit of that generation, we have made an indelible mark on Lake County's history. Although we started humbly with just a few students scattered across makeshift classes in Painesville, we now boast thousands of graduates.

Expand

After those first few classes in Painesville, students soon thereafter found themselves coming to a college among the rolling, green hills of Kirtland. Classrooms, science labs, gyms and a university center were added throughout the decades to adapt to population changes and needs. Expansion was not just physical. Student numbers increased and academic programs expanded to include new technologies and emerging fields. More recently, our students were welcomed with a new, state-of-the-art health building in spring 2018. It is set up to look and feel just like a real health care facility so that students become familiar with that type of environment. We are proud to say that our health students continue to have the reputation of being among the best educated in the region.

Innovate

Changes in the way that students learn is inevitable. No one could have imagined it in 1967 that, in addition to traditional classes, online classes would also now be the norm. Today's students also crave different experiences to learn. To meet that need, we developed a bright space on the ground floor of the new health building to help them spark creativity and excitement for experimentation. This new and innovative area, known as the makerspace "HIVE," is filled with the sounds of collaboration, tinkering and exploration on 3D printers and other tools that build skills that they can take with them once they leave our nest. In fact, many classes and lectures are held here as a way to shake up learning and get students to open their minds to possibilities they can't even imagine yet.

A Message from the President

Graduate

We are passionate about finding ways to help our students earn a college degree. Behind the scenes, we have dedicated student success programs and caring staff who make it their mission to see everyone succeed. We understand that many students already doubt themselves. Minor life events can take on an entirely more significant meaning for them. Even slight failures can become huge. This is where our resources—from tutoring services to the women’s center, men’s resource center, veterans center, Hispanic program and more—step in to help our students graduate. We are even experimenting with texts to students, as a way to remind, encourage and cheer them on through the semester. In the near future, students will benefit from reimagined student services – from beginning to end—to create steps forward toward graduation and minimize setbacks.

More than five decades later, we continue to blaze trails, get things done, roll up our sleeves and make it happen for our students. We look forward to celebrating the next chapters in Lakeland’s history and the success of each and every student to come.
