

Fall to Spring Persistence of First-time College Students, Full and Part-time, 2020-2024

Full-time Students that Returned or Completed by Spring

Part-time Students that Returned or Completed by Spring

NOTE

Fall to Spring Persistence is the percentage of entering first-time degree/certificate-seeking students enrolled as of the 15th day of fall term who either re-enroll (in at least one for-credit class) or successfully complete a program by the 15th day of the following spring. In the charts students entered the prior fall.

Student populations excluded from the data: transfer students, high school students, and all other students who were not reported in the cohorts as first-time degree/certificate seeking students in the fall terms identified in the charts.
